Laboratory skills

Characterization Instruments

- During bachelor and master's modules, I have acquired good laboratory practice skills, good knowledge of GC, DSC, PXRD polarimetry, and very experienced with work on HPLC.

Quality Assessment of Tablets

- Have done many lab sessions on (disintegration, dissolution, uniformity of content, uniformity of weight friability and hardness).

Solid Processing

- Familiar with dry and wet granulation, spheronization, tableting and capsule filling.

Solid Dispersion

- have done labs on spray drying, freeze drying and hot melt extrusion technologies.

KEY TRANSFERABLE SKILLS

Analytical mind set

- I have good analytical mindset, a recent example in my master's research project I optimized lipid suspension particle size by modification of the operation process parameters.

Presentation and Public speaking

- have done 9 hours' workshop on the topic in addition to extensive presenting during master various modules.

Time Management

- During my recent master degree, I managed my time effectively and succeeded in submitting a great amount of reports within a challenging time frame.

IT/Computing

- Skilled with search engines and Microsoft office applications such as word, Excel and power point which I used during my studies
- Familiar with SPSS, material studio, Design expert, mercury and ConQuest which I worked on in master's degree modules and assignments.

Languages

- Fluent in Arabic and English (IELTS 7.0).

ACTIVITIES AND INTERESTS

• Volunteering:

- Participated in two medical convoys to EL-Dewaim and El-Magaweer rural areas by purchasing/collecting medicines and paramedicals from drug companies; from which I learned how to manage time, improved my planning and organizing and teamwork skills further.
- Went to the targeted areas and worked closely with senior pharmacists and I learned how to promote work in a professional environment.
- I enjoy learning new skills, a recent example at 2015 attended a nine hours' workshop for public speaking and presentation skills, and I participated in many workshops with the skill center at university of Bradford.
- Enjoy active social life with family and friends.
